

What right do you think you have to allow telemarketers to invade my private time with their harrassing unwanted calls. If these people would accept the first time you say "no" or would hang up and not call back when you request them to, then I would agree. But telemarketers are pushy, nasty and will harrass you at all times of the day and never take "No" for an answer. New Jersey may have its downfalls but thank God I can now eat dinner without being bothered by someone wasting my time.
